President F. W. Whitridge of the Third Avenue road, which owns the street car sestem of Yonkers, ansounced to-day in a letter to Mayor Lennon that street car operation will be resumed on all the lines in Youkers to-morrow.

Mr. Whitridge said he has enough motormen and conductors who have had fifteen days' experience, to comply with the local ordinance requiring that term of service. When the cars are started with men who have worked in Yonkers fifteen days, new nen will be schooled and as fast as they qualify after the fifteen-day period they will be out on the regular runs. It is believed that some of the old men have agreed to go back to start the line. Not a car wheel has turned in Yonkers for seven weeks.

Asked about the strike, he said:

"So far as we are concerned we will have enough men by the end of the week to bring back normal conditions About 450 of the old men have returned and we have 200 new men at

"Glad to be rid of the strikebreakers!" he exclaimed when that subject ber we had to keep the road running and we had to get men in a rush wherever we could. I confess I was a bit of an amateur so far as labor troubles are concerned. But no more strikebreakers. Why, that crowd wasn't even respectable in its dishonesty! They were looters of the first water." Mr. Whitridge wasn't quite as specific as other officials of the road. A reporter for The Evening World learned that strikebreakers on the Third Avenue division "canned" $10,-000 before Shonts, Hedley and Whitthrow them all out. On the New Roman Catholic Church. York Rallways the loot was so large notorious of the strikebreakers on the Third Avenue division was a man nicknamed "Jimmie the Gut." During his first week as a conductor he 'knocked down" $125. The records rips : a turned in 55 cents.

Superintendent George Murphy got his biggest surprise-it was expected that they would "knock down"-when motorman," meaning one of the old men who wouldn't bargain with him to let passengers in by the front do.r. Because of the scarcity of men at the time, one of his own crowd was assisted as motorman. When both had passed every transfer point for seven days and got all they could by bullying passengers they calmly went up to the cashier and said:

"We've got $2.50 due us yet, boss," And they got it.

Prince Andrea.

The mother of the bride wore the pearls which helped to make her collection of jewels rival those of the Queen of Italy during the years her husband, the late William Franklin Draper, was United States Ambassador there.

Shortly after the ceremony the Prince and Princess, the latter wearing a satin wedding gown, a suit of dark blue and a smart little toque, departed on their honeymoon. Their destination was supposed to be the old Draper homestead at Hopedale, Mass, Michael Francis Doyle of Philadelphia, the American attorney who defended Sir Roger Casement, tried for treason in London, was also a visitor at Democratic national headquarters. He announced he would go on the stump for President Wilson in New York, New Jersey and Connecticut.

Having stumped in Pennsylvania, he said the sentiment in that State was certainly drifting to the President and that he would not be surprised to see the Democrats carry the State, despite its usual 400,000 Republican plurality.

The reasons for this alleged shift, said the lawyer, are peace, prosperity, the eight-hour law, the progressive principles of President Wilson and the Republicans.
